Team Ownership

Daniel M. Snyder Redskins Owner

In 2002, Daniel M. Snyder, 38, brought coaching legend Steve Spurrier to the Washington Redskins. In 2003, Snyder built on his coaching moves by startling the NFL and football fans with the addition of 15 free agents to the team, giving Spurrier the tools to move to the next step in the franchise's quest for the Super Bowl.

In a series of off-season moves, Snyder, in his fifth season as team owner, set out to bring the Redskins a bevy of stellar players as solid building blocks for the future. Snyder's success in negotiating and signing contracts with the free agents — both restricted and unrestricted — may prove to be a new NFL model in coming seasons. "We have a three-year plan, and in year one we wanted to gather a core group of young players who should be with us as we move forward. We met all of our off-season goals," Snyder said.

The new players, all acquired to fill positions of need, are an outstanding group:

Laveranues Coles, wide receiver
Trung Canidate, running back
Randy Thomas, offensive guard
Dave Fiore, offensive guard
Regan Upshaw, defensive end
Brandon Noble, defensive tackle
Matt Bowen, safety
Chad Morton, kick returner/running back
John Hall, kicker

They will complement the team's established stars — LaVar Arrington, Chris Samuels, Champ Bailey, Jon Jansen, Fred Smoot, Jeremiah Trotter and Rod Gardner.

Snyder's efforts are not confined to the Redskins' personnel side. The team continues to be ranked by Forbes magazine as the nation's most valuable sports franchise. The Redskins also are recognized throughout the NFL for their innovative marketing direction, and Redskins fans continue their unprecedented support for the burgundy and gold, delivering the league-high (record) attendance for the 2002 season. The team has sold out every home game since 1968.

Snyder's interests outside the Redskins are varied. He is a member of corporate boards of directors, including McLeod USA and Ventiv Health, and is active in the National Football League, serving as a member of the Broadcast Committee and Ventures Committee.

He is spearheading the effort to bring the Super Bowl to Washington, D.C., for the 2008 season. He is also active in several private business ventures, both as an investor and advisor.

As one of the Washington area's most prominent community leaders, Snyder supports many charitable efforts, most of them anonymously. He devotes some of his philanthropic work to Washington's Children's National Medical Center, where he is a member of the Board of Directors. His support enabled the construction of the Snyder Family Emergency Medicine and Trauma Center. He is a member of the Board of Directors of the Center for Missing and Exploited Children, where he funded the construction of the Daniel M. Snyder and Family Communication Center. Each day the Center handles hundreds of calls from law enforcement organizations, parents of missing children, runaways seeking help, and people responding to the Center's well-known awareness campaigns on behalf of missing children.

Snyder also serves on the Board of Directors of Ted Forstmann's Parents in Charge, as well as the Washington Board of Trade, and is a member of the Business Executives for National Security and the Executive Leadership Cabinet for the Martin Luther King, Jr., National Memorial Foundation Project.

He is the founder and driving force of the Washington Redskins Leadership Council, a unique partnership between the team and prominent Washington-area business executives, including J.W. Marriott, Jr., CEO of Marriott International; Fred Smith, Chairman, President and CEO of FedEx Corp; Donald E. Graham, Chairman of the Board of The Washington Post Company; and Mitchell Caplan, CEO of E*TRADE Financial. Since 2000, the Leadership Council has drawn on the prominence and leverage of the Redskins organization to fund and further branded community projects such as summer reading programs, community-based redevelopment initiatives and renovation of high school football facilities throughout Maryland, Virginia and Washington, D.C. In 2003, a Leadership Council initiative will begin placing "academic coaches" in high schools throughout Washington, D.C., to help student athletes improve classroom performance.

Snyder was Chairman and CEO of Snyder Communications, Inc., (a member of the New York Stock Exchange), the company he founded in 1985 which grew to a global organization of 12,000 employees, 77 offices in 16 countries, and more than $1 billion in annual revenues. Snyder Communications provided its Fortune 500 clients targeted marketing solutions, including advertising and marketing services. The company was sold in September 2000 to the French marketing firm Havas for more than $2.3 billion, the largest merger in the history of the advertising/marketing industry.

REDSKINS OWNERSHIP HISTORY

Gerald S. Snyder One of the Ultimate Redskins Fans

"My love of the Redskins was love at first sight," said Gerald S. Snyder before his death at 69 in May of this year.

Beloved father of Redskins owners Daniel Snyder and Michele Snyder, Gerry was one of the ultimate Redskins fans. A co-owner of the team and steadfast partner, adviser and supporter of his son and daughter, he came to the Redskins after a lifetime of adventure.

He was the son of a milkman and a garment worker, both from England, who sailed to New York City to build a better life. When Gerry was 3, his father died and his mother took him and his brother back to England, where they remained until Gerry's early teenage years. After their return to the U.S., Gerry graduated from high school in Kansas City, served in the U.S. Army and got his journalism degree at the University of Missouri on the G.I. Bill.

He worked for a while as a reporter for the Religious News Service in Manhattan. But after the death of his mother in 1960, he quit his job and set off by ship to Spain for, as he put it, "the adventure of it all." Working as a freelance writer, he wrote stories with European datelines for a variety of American newspapers about every imaginable topic. He wrote these stories for what he called "starvation freelance earnings." But decades later, when he was in his 60s and successful, Gerry said, "Wish I could do it all over again!"

Based in the apartment of a couple in Madrid, he noticed a framed photograph of their goddaughter, Arlette, a beautiful young French girl from Casablanca. "I did the most sensible thing," he said, which was to rush to the nearest U.S. Air Force base and hitch a ride with a fighter pilot to Casablanca, with a letter of introduction from his landlord.

Within two weeks, Gerry and Arlette were engaged. Within months, they were married.

After traveling extensively throughout Europe on freelance writing assignments, the Snyders moved to New York in 1962, where Gerry went to work for United Press International. They stayed for four years and had their two children, Michele and Daniel.

In the late 60s, Gerry was hired by the book department of The National Geographic Society, and the Snyders moved to the Washington area, which Gerry already knew well. He had been stationed here for his two years of Army service at Fort Meade, during which he began his lifelong love affair with the Washington Redskins.

He always took his family with him on his research trips for what would eventually total 21 books, including In the Footsteps of Lewis and Clark, The Royal Oak Disaster, the first complete account of the sinking of a British battleship by a German U-boat during WWII, and In Search of the Loch Ness Monster, one of his books for a younger audience.

In Washington, the Snyders found a home, not only geographically; they also found a touchstone every Sunday on television.

The Washington Redskins.

Unable to buy tickets to the games, they began a Sunday ritual, which they called their "Redskins Picnic." When Daniel Snyder turned 2, his father bought him a Sonny Jurgensen jersey and Redskins belt buckle, which he would wear for Sunday games. He'd sit beside his father on a blanket in front of their old black-and-white TV, eating his mother's famous Redskins Chili and cheering on their team. One Sunday, the Snyders' ancient television went dead. "We rushed like mad to get a new TV and get back before the start of the game," Gerry remembered.

Like their team, Gerry and Arlette Snyder raised their children to believe that anything is possible and victory is always within reach.

In 1971, when Dan was 7, his father took him to his first Redskins game at RFK Stadium, a rite of passage for both father and son. When Dan began selling college students Spring Break vacation packages to Florida, Gerry became his partner and helped run the business out of a spare bedroom in his home. When Dan launched his magazine, Campus USA, Gerry wrote all of the stories (under different bylines), and when times got tough he mortgaged his home to help with the overhead. When Dan and his sister Michele created Snyder Communications, Gerry served as Editor-in-Chief and all-around collaborator. The company would become the world's largest direct-marketing firm and went public on The New York Stock Exchange in 1996.

Gerald S. Snyder (1933-2003)

When Dan bought the Redskins in 1999, Gerry quickly and happily dipped into the equity he'd realized from selling his Snyder Communications shares when the company went public to join his son in buying the team. "My father was my best friend," Dan Snyder said at his father's funeral.

Before his open-heart surgery, Gerry summoned his doctor to his bedside, saying he'd found a lump on the side of his chest. When the doctor lifted the bed sheet for an examination, he found a football cradled in Gerald Snyder's arm.

He never lost his sense of humor, or his love for the Washington Redskins.

Gerry will be remembered for his kindness, gentleness and his great love for his family and friends. His minority ownership in the team will be passed on to his wife, Arlette Snyder, who will maintain it for the family. His love of the Redskins is his legacy to us all.

By Mark Seal, who had the pleasure of meeting Gerald S. Snyder a few months before his death.

Redskins players will wear this patch during the 2003 season in honor of Gerald S. Snyder.

Ownership Group

Since the early days of his business career, at Snyder Communications in Bethesda, Maryland, Daniel M. Snyder has counted Michele D. Snyder and Fred Drasner among his closest advisors and supporters. Throughout his business career, and extending into his ownership of the Washington Redskins, they have remained key advisors.

Michele Snyder and long-time business partner Fred Drasner have been key individuals who Daniel Snyder has turned to before launching a business initiative or making a critical business decision. They have been partners, advisors, and confidants, each performing a distinctive role.

Drasner was the first in the business world to recognize the potential of Daniel Snyder when he arranged the initial financing of Snyder Communications. The two have since engaged in several other joint business ventures.

A native of Brooklyn, New York, Drasner is a self-made man with tremendous drive and ambition. In the latter two qualities, as well as in his business vision, he has found a great affinity with the Redskins owner.

Drasner also directs several businesses including Applied Graphics Technologies, U.S. News and World Report, the New York Daily News, and Fast Company magazine, with combined revenues of over $1.3 billion.

Daniel Snyder's sister Michele, a founder of Snyder Communications, shares his ambitious spirit. Her creativity, operational skills, and business instincts have played an instrumental role in the success of Team Snyder over the past 15 years. Ms. Snyder participates in several charitable organizations in the Washington, D.C. area that focus on social causes and address important community issues.

Coaches & Staff

Steve Spurrier Head Coach

2nd NFL Season/2nd Redskins

On January 14, 2002, Redskins Owner Daniel Snyder welcomed Steve Spurrier as the franchise's 25th head coach, beginning a new chapter in Redskins history. Spurrier came to Washington ready to test his aggressive offensive style on the pro level, and guide the Redskins back to a World Championship. After a 7-9 debut last year, Coach Spurrier and the Redskins staff have made a number of new additions during the off-season to get the Washington Redskins on track for a successful 2003 campaign.

Coach Spurrier's 2002 season began on the international stage, with a sweeping victory at the American Bowl in Osaka, Japan. Spurrier's Redskins finished out the preseason with a 4-1 mark, setting a team record with 164 preseason points. While the regular season campaign was not as productive as the Redskins had hoped, a strong finish set the stage for a promising off-season.

Under the guidance of Spurrier, rookie quarterback Patrick Ramsey showed significant improvement with each game, and has been named the starter for 2003. Other young players and newcomers on offense including wide receivers Laveranues Coles, Rod Gardner and draft choice Taylor Jacobs, running backs Trung Canidate and Ladell Betts, and offensive linemen Chris Samuels, Jon Jansen and Randy Thomas, have all benefited from Spurrier's strong off-season program. His appointments of offensive coordinator Hue Jackson and defensive coordinator George Edwards, while not changing Spurrier's hands-on approach, will give him additional freedom to oversee the team's overall strategy and execution going into the new season.

"Steve Spurrier will bring a supercharged, exciting and dynamic brand of football to our great fans," Snyder said upon Spurrier's arrival in January 2002. "His ability to energize players and teams is unprecedented. The Redskins deserve to be back at the Super Bowl and I am immensely confident that Steve is the coach to get us there."

The former Heisman Trophy winner amassed a truly stunning 122-27-1 record in his 12 years as head coach of the University of Florida Gators, including the 1996 National Championship. Spurrier's teams have won seven Southeastern Conference Championships, and he had 10 or more wins in nine of his seasons with the Gators.

Spurrier's offensive fireworks have been a constant. Since 1990, his Florida offense averaged more than 35 points a game, along with an average 310 passing yards and 460 total yards per game.

His list of achievements is lengthy, including the best win total in history for a major college coach over his first 12 seasons, and reaching 100 career victories faster than any major college coach in the 20th century.

He began coaching following the completion of a 10-year career as an NFL quarterback on the heels of his 1966 Heisman Trophy, earned as a stellar field leader while at Florida. He was the Gators starting quarterback for three years and was voted first-team All-America in both 1965 and 1966. He was named to the National Collegiate Football Hall of Fame in 1986.

As the first-round pick of the 49ers in the 1967 NFL draft, he played quarterback for San Francisco from 1967-75 and for the Tampa Bay Bucs in 1976. He returned to Florida in 1978 as quarterbacks coach, before moving to Georgia Tech as offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach for the 1979 season. He joined the Duke Blue Devils in the same capacity from 1980-82, and then moved on to the USFL as the head coach of the Tampa Bay Bandits.

At the Bandits from 1983-85, Spurrier compiled a 35-19 record with two straight playoff appearances. His 1984 team was the first in pro football history to produce a 4,000-yard passer and two 1,000-yard rushers in the same season.

He returned to Duke as head coach in 1987 and turned around a moribund program to produce winning seasons after his initial 5-6 year. During his three-year tenure, he compiled a 20-13-1 record and led the team to its first Atlantic Coast Conference (ACC) Championship in 24 years in 1989. In each of his three seasons, the Blue Devils averaged more than 300 yards per game passing, the only team in ACC history to reach the mark.

"I am one lucky guy to be coaching the Washington Redskins."

—Steve Spurrier,
on his first day at Redskins Park

Spurrier was born April 20, 1945 in Miami Beach, Florida, the son of Presbyterian minister J. Graham Spurrier and his wife, Marjorie. The family moved to Johnson City, Tennessee when he was 12. As a student at Science Hill High School, he was all-state in football, basketball and baseball. He was prep All-American in football in 1962. His baseball team won two straight state titles and in three seasons of pitching, he never lost a game.

Spurrier met his wife, Jerri, while both were students at Florida and they married in 1966. They have four children: daughters Lisa and Amy, and sons Steve, Jr., who coaches the Redskins wide receivers, and Scotty. They have seven grandchildren.

While working closely with Spurrier, Jackson's challenge in 2003 is to integrate the many new Redskins brought together by the team's aggressive off-season, and make them a cohesive and successful unit. He will continue to have a strong focus on the running backs, including newly acquired Trung Canidate and Chad Morton, as well as developing young players Kenny Watson and Ladell Betts.

Jackson, heralded by his players as a high-energy, hands-on teacher and motivator, has helped mold Watson and Betts into significant contributors to the Redskins lineup. In his second year out of Penn State, Watson posted a total of 534 yards and one touchdown on 116 carries, including two 110-yard games, finishing the season twelfth in the NFL in average yards per carry with 4.6. Betts finished the year with 307 yards and one touchdown on 65 carries.

Over the last two seasons, Jackson played a key role in the success of Pro Bowl running back Stephen Davis. He rushed for a career high 1,432 yards in 2001, breaking his 1999 record of 1,405 yards and becoming the first Redskin RB to rush for more than 1,000 yards three consecutive seasons. In 2002, he added 820 more yards before a season-ending shoulder injury, surpassing the 5,000-yard mark for his career.

Jackson came to the Redskins in 2001 after 14 years coaching in the college ranks. Prior to his jump to the NFL, he spent four seasons as Southern Cal's offensive coordinator (1997-2000). He worked with the quarterbacks two seasons and the running backs two seasons. This year, Jackson is reunited with USC alum Chad Morton, signed by the Redskins during the 2003 off-season as the team's primary kick returner. Working with Jackson over three years, Morton had a tremendous collegiate career, culminating in All-Pac 10 honors his senior season, posting 262 carries for 1,141 yards and a team-leading 15 touchdowns.

In 1996, Jackson led California's high-powered offense as its offensive coordinator, and was quarterbacks coach when the Golden Bears went to the Aloha Bowl. He also spent four seasons at Arizona State (1992-95), two at Cal State Fullerton (1990-91) and three at University of the Pacific (1987-89), all in various coaching roles on offense.

Mike Stock SPECIAL TEAMS

Redskins

Coaching: Mike Stock returns for his third season with the burgundy and gold, with a number of new players filling out the special teams units. He is charged this season with the continued development of young players including fullback Bryan Johnson and safety Ifeanyi Ohalet, as well as newcomers kick returner/running back Chad Morton and kicker John Hall. This will mark his 39th year in coaching, and the Redskins will look to his leadership and experience to help mold together the many new talents in this year's special teams lineup and throughout the roster.

Last season, Redskins special teams battled through a number of injuries and personnel changes to make a solid contribution to the team's success. Running back Ladell Betts emerged as the Redskins' primary returner, and ended the season averaging 26.4 yards per return (28 returns), finishing as the NFL's leading rookie kickoff returner. Bryan Johnson and linebackers Eddie Mason and Kevin Mitchell led the way in special teams tackles, each showing great improvement and leadership in their second season working with Coach Stock.

Stock joined the Redskins in 2001, and made an immediate impact in his first year with the team. The Redskins special teams units improved drastically from the 2000 season with Stock's guidance. By the end of 2001, Washington led the NFL in yards allowed by kickoff coverage, permitting only 945 yards on 54 kickoffs. The team finished second in kickoff return average (or average starting field position after kicking off), with opponents lining up at the 25.7 (avg.) yard line, an improvement from 14th overall in 2000 with a 31.0 average start. Stock's work cultivated stellar performances from a number of special teams standouts including kicker Brett Conway, punt returner Eric Metcalf, kick returner Michael Bates and fullback Bryan Johnson.

Prior to joining the Redskins, Stock served as special team coach in Kansas City for six seasons (1995-2000). His units consistently ranked among the league's finest, particularly in the return phase of the game. Under Stock's guidance, the Chiefs posted eight TDs in the return game, four on both punts and kickoffs. Kansas City amassed 706 punt return yards in 1999, snapping its all-time mark of 612 set in 1979. The Chiefs tied the franchise record with 58 punt returns in 2000 and returned two punts for scores, just the fifth time in team history. In 1997, Stock was named Special Teams Coach of the Year, an award voted on by his NFL counterparts.

Stock also coached with the Cincinnati Bengals (1987-91), including Super Bowl XXIII, and the USFL's New Jersey Generals (1983). In 26 years of college coaching, he helped numerous young athletes enter the NFL ranks. In coaching stints at Notre Dame (1969-74, 1983-86), he worked with Heisman Trophy winner Tim Brown, All-American tight end Dave Casper, former New York Giants Pro Bowl tight end Mark Bavaro, and 1,000-yard running back Anthony Johnson of the Carolina Panthers. At Ohio State, where Stock coached from 1992-94, he groomed a talented trio of future NFL receivers: Joey Galloway, Terry Glenn and Chris Sanders.

Stock was head coach at Eastern Michigan from 1978-82. He spent three seasons at Wisconsin, as running backs coach in 1975 and offensive coordinator in 1976 and 1977, after completing stints at Notre Dame (1969-74), Navy (1968) and the University of Buffalo (1966-67). Stock started his coaching career at Akron (OH) South High School in 1965.

Playing: Stock played fullback under legendary coach Ara Parseghian at Northwestern. He led the Wildcats in rushing in 1959 and 1960. A knee injury halted his pro playing career with the CFL's Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Personal: Stock spent three years in the U.S. Army. He earned a bachelor of science degree from Northwestern in 1961. A native of Barberton, OH, he and his wife, Peggy, have three children: Michael, Patrick and Cynthia, and three grandchildren. The Stocks live in Leesburg, VA.

Rodgers' quest faded when the League decided to expand in Jacksonville and Charlotte.

Gardner kept the energy up in Week 7 vs. NYG when he caught a 12-yard touchdown pass 1:39 into the first quarter, giving the Redskins an early lead and their second victory of the season. At Philadelphia (11/25), he made a critical third-and-long conversion late in the fourth quarter. The win was the fifth consecutive for the Redskins and made them the first team in NFL history to win five straight games after losing their first five of the season. gained all but one yard through the air. He caught at least five passes in nine games, including the Peach Bowl against Mississippi State, when he posted seven catches for 75 yards. Gardner played in eleven games and started three in his sophomore season, catching 20 passes for 263 yards (13.2 avg.) and a TD. His performance vs. Indianapolis led to selection as AFC Offensive Player of the Week and contributed to decision to give him the start for playoff game. He made his NFL postseason debut with start in Wild Card Game at Tennessee (1/8). Despite playing behind a depleted offensive line, showed amazing poise and presence in hostile Adelphia Coliseum and would have emerged as the game's hero if not for the Titans now-famous kickoff return. After trailing 12-0 at the half, he came out on the opening drive of the third quarter and directed the Bills to a 62-yard TD drive that cut the deficit to 12-7. He followed that by giving the Bills their first lead of the day on a nine-play, 65-yard drive late in the third that was capped off by an Antowain Smith touchdown run early in the fourth quarter. After a late Titans FG put the hosts up 15-13, the Bills took over offense with 1:41 remaining in the game and no timeouts. Johnson led the offense on a six-play, 38-yard drive in just 1:32 that was highlighted by a pair of Johnson passes to WR Peerless Price, the second of which came after Johnson lost his shoe and executed the play wearing just one. 1998: Johnson played in eight games and started six in his first season with the Bills. He started game three vs. St. Louis (9/20) and completed 18 passes on 28 attempts for 231 yards and a career-best three TDs and also had a career-long run of 32 yards vs. Rams, which was the third longest rush ever by a Bills QB. He opened the game with a 50-yard pass to Eric Moulds and was 19-of-27 passing for a season-high 254 yards and a five-yard TD pass to Quinn Early. He enjoyed an outstanding game vs. Saints, completing 12-of-18 passes for 216 yards and three TDs (1, 23, and 66 yards). He also rushed for 23 yards and a TD in leading the Bills to a 45-point offensive output. 1997: Saw action in five games with one start for Jacksonville, completing 22-of-28 passes for 344 yards with two TDs and two INTs. Johnson opened the Ravens game in impressive fashion, leading the team to TDs on two of the first four drives. He completed his first eight passes, including 3-3 for 41 yards on the game-opening drive that he capped with a 25-yard TD run. He then closed the game with six straight completions and went 4-4 for 85 yards on the game-winning drive in the fourth quarter that ended with a 28-yard TD pass to Jimmy Smith. ... Was forced to leave the game twice with a high ankle sprain but returned each time. He started the final two preseason games in place of the injured Brunell and was 2-0 as the starter ... He had the NFL's highest QB rating (142.9), completing 28 of 39 passes (71.8%) for 506 yards with six TDs and one INT. 1996: Was the Jaguars number two quarterback but did not play in any games as Brunell was the NFL's only QB to take every one of his team's snaps. His only action came in the preseason when he played in every game and completed 30-of-43 passes (69.8%) for 336 yards, three touchdowns and no interceptions. He also rushed three times for 23 yards, including a seven-yard scoring run vs. San Francisco. 1995: Johnson was in uniform for every game and saw action in one contest. His only playing time came at Detroit (12/17) when he completed 3-of-7 passes for 24 yards, with one interception and also had three rushes for 17 yards. Johnson was the seventh quarterback drafted behind Steve McNair, Kerry Collins, Todd Collins, Kordell Stewart, Stoney Case and Eric Zeier.

He left the game for several series and was replaced by RG Jeremy McKinney as part of the offensive line rotation vs. Detroit (9/23). DARRELL GREEN'S FINAL SEASON

28 Cornerback Texas A&I

First round draft pick by Washington in 1983
(28th overall)

Final Game:
A 20-14 victory over the Dallas Cowboys at
FedExField 12/29/02

Veteran cornerback Darrell Green, named last summer as one of the 70 Greatest Redskins of all time, completed his 20th and final season in the NFL and with the Washington Redskins. Green has won over legions of fans in the NFL and the Washington D.C. metro area with his heart, play-making ability and dependability. Also known for his strong community involvement, Green has played an instrumental role in the rich tradition of the Washington Redskins. With Green on the roster, the Redskins have compiled a win/loss record of 177-141-1, a 55.7 winning percentage. Since Green's rookie season, the Redskins have made the playoffs eight times, appeared in three Super Bowls and were twice Super Bowl Champions. The following is a smattering of the feats that Green has accomplished during his 20-year career:

- Holds NFL record for consecutive seasons with an interception (19).
- Tied with two other players (Eric Allen and Willie Brown) for all-time INT's (54).
- Has intercepted 21 different quarterbacks during his career.
- Has earned seven trips to the Pro Bowl (1984, 1986, 1987, 1990, 1991, 1996 and 1997).
- Last season was the oldest player (42) in the league.
- Holds Redskins record for most regular-season games played (295) and started (258).
- Has scored 10 career touchdowns - seven INT returns, one punt return and two fumble returns

Redskins Milestones

'Redskin' Through the Years...

Red Cloud. Red Thunder. Red Eagle. Redlands. Red mud.

"The term redskin, applied by Europeans to Algonquians in general and the Delawares in particular," says the Reader's Digest in its book America's Fascinating Indian Heritage, "was inspired not by their natural complexion but by their fondness for vermilion makeup, concocted from fat mixed with berry juice and minerals that provided the desired color." The men "would streak their faces and bodies with bright red ocher and bloodroot," adds the Reader's Digest.

Indians painted their skin for decorative and ceremonial purposes. "Red is generally accepted as being one of the colors most easily available to and most used by Indians," as Ronald P. Koch states in his book Dress Clothing of the Plains Indians.

Ring Out the Rams

For the first time since 1980, the Redskins post a shutout by beating the Cardinals 28-0. Their 8-1 record is the best in the NFC, giving them home-field advantage throughout the playoffs. The 128 points given up by the Redskins defense is the fewest in the NFL.

The celebrated Hogs create enough holes in the Viking defense for John Riggins to plow for a Redskins playoff record of 185 yards, leading Washington to a 21-7 win and a spot in the NFC Championship. Before leaving the game, Riggins gallantly bows to the 54,000-plus Redskins faithful who roar in approval.

The Redskins avenge their only loss of the season, setting back the Cowboys, 31-17, to reach their second Super Bowl, and first in ten years.

The Redskins win Super Bowl XVII downing the Dolphins 27-17. Their win streak reaches eight, and 15 of 16 and 20 of 24 over two seasons. Jack Kent Cooke accepts the Super Bowl Trophy from Pete Rozelle in the locker room as MVP Riggins boasts, "Ron may be President, but for tonight I'm King." The Redskins' 12-1 record is the fifth best NFL mark in the last 50 years, and their best ever.

President and Mrs. Reagan are at Dulles Airport to greet the World Champion Redskins as they arrive back from California.

The entire city of Washington celebrates as the Redskins are paraded before some 500,000 fans in a downtown ceremony amidst pouring rain. Coach Gibbs holds up the Super Bowl Trophy and proclaims, "This is for you."

Joe Gibbs is named Coach of the Year. Mark Moseley is named NFL MVP by Associated Press, Joe Theismann is Miller Man of the Year, and five Redskins (the most since 1972) are named to the Pro Bowl: Moseley, Theismann, Tony Peters, Charlie Brown, and Mike Nelms. Later, Bobby Beathard is named Executive of the Year. And Riggins, who had four straight 100-yard rushing playoff games, the first ever to do so, wins a car as Super Bowl MVP.

Former Redskin greats quarterback Sonny Jurgensen and receiver Bobby Mitchell are inducted into Pro Football's Hall of Fame.

The Redskins lose 48-47, in the highest scoring game in Monday night football history. The Redskins and the Packers combine for over 1,000 yards total offense.

John Riggins sets NFL record. His consecutive games with rushing touchdowns reaches 12 while notching his 19th touchdown of the year to tie that NFL mark. John's streak ends at 13 consecutive games while he goes on to establish an NFL record 24 touchdowns.

Dressed in army fatigues, the Redskins marched into Dallas to do battle. The result was a convincing 31-10 victory and sole possession of first place in the NFC East. It was a game that saw Tony Dorsett held to 34 yards on 14 carries (one yard of five carries in the second half) and scores from four different Redskins.

For the second year in a row the Redskins finished with the best record in the NFL. Their 31-22 victory over the Giants capped a remarkable 14-2 regular season. It is the first time in the history of the League that an NFC team has compiled so many victories.

Mark Moseley's NFL kick scoring record of 161 points, and Riggins' total of 144 points, top entire NFL. It is the first time since 1951 that the number one and two scorers played on the same team. Their total of 305 points surpasses the totals of eight other clubs.

The Redskins ring in the New Year by drubbing the L.A. Rams 51-7 in the most lopsided playoff in 26 years. Team sets or ties 13 club playoff marks with the 44-point margin of victory, the greatest in the 47-year history of the Redskins.

Three of a Kind

The 10 victories marks a third consecutive season the Redskins won 10 or more games, equalling a club-best streak set from 1972-74. The 35 wins in those three seasons were a club record for the successes for a three-year period. Threes were also meaningful for offensive linemen Joe Jacoby and Russ Grimm, who each earned a third consecutive trip to the Pro Bowl. Receiver Art Monk (91 catches) was sent for second straight time.

Down by 21 points in the third quarter and 17 points entering the fourth, Jeff Rutledge rallied the Skins by passing for 363 second-half yards (30-42). The game winning points came on a Chip Lohmiller 34-yard field goal in overtime.

The Redskins pushed their playoff record to 12-3 under Joe Gibbs with a solid team effort 20-6 win over the Eagles at Veterans Stadium.

The Redskins became only the sixth team in NFL history to record 17-or-more wins in a single season by posting a 17-2 overall mark (best in team history).

In 16 games, the "Hogs" allowed a league low and club record nine sacks. It was the third lowest total in NFL history.

George Blanda's 27-yard field goal decided contest after 7:13.

September 27, 1976 - Veterans Stadium

Mark Moseley's 29-yard field goal won the Monday night game with 12:49 elapsed in overtime.

November 12, 1978 - RFK Stadium

Redskins won on Moseley's 45-yard field goal after 3:32 elapsed.

November 15, 1981 - Giants Stadium

Jay Schroeder engineered a four play 63-yard drive ending with a Gary Clark 38-yard TD pass.

December 26, 1987 - Metrodome

Jim Breech connected from 20 yards out seven minutes into sudden death.

November 4, 1990 - Pontiac Silverdome

Darrell Green intercepted a Warren Moon pass which set-up Lohmiller's 41-yard field goal 5:01 into overtime moving the Redskins to a 9-0 record. The Oilers tied the game with less than two minutes in regulation and had a chance to win after Brian Mitchell fumbled the kickoff, but Ian Howfield's 33-yard attempt sailed wide left.

October 16, 1994 - RFK Stadium
Arizona 19, Washington 16

Arizona scored the tying TD with :19 in regulation and scored the winning points with 4:56 in overtime. Arizona's game-winner was set up by Terry Hoage who intercepted a Heath Shuler pass and returned it 12 yards to the 23. Peterson kicked the game-winning 29-yard field goal.

October 8, 1995 - Veterans Stadium

Down 10 points in the 4th quarter, Gus Frerotte guided the Redskins back with a touchdown pass to Henry Ellard and Eddie Murray's 46-yard field goal tied it up with :52 left. In OT, Washington stalled on its opening drive and the Eagles' Gary Anderson won the game with a 35-yard field goal.

October 22, 1995 - RFK Stadium

November 10, 1996 - RFK Stadium
Arizona 37, Washington 34

In one of the most bizarre games in Redskin history, the Skins led by 14 points in the fourth quarter only to squander the lead. The Cardinals won the coin toss, and drove to the Redskins 15, only to have Kevin Butler miss. The Skins' Scott Blanton booted the apparent 38-yard game-winner, but a holding penalty forced a retry from 48 that went wide left. Arizona then tried a 29-yarder that missed, only the Redskins were offside. Butler's third attempt was good from 32-yards.

November 24, 1996 - RFK Stadium
San Francisco 19, Washington 16

San Francisco's William Floyd's 1-yard touchdown run tied the game in regulation. After winning the coin toss in overtime, the 49ers Jeff Wilkins hit a 38-yard field goal to win.

September 14, 1997 - Jack Kent Cooke Stadium
Washington 19, Arizona 13

In the inaugural game at Jack Kent Cooke Stadium, the Redskins win with 13:24 left in OT when Gus Frerotte, sidestepping a heavy rush, throws a 40-yard strike to a leaping Michael Westbrook in the end zone. The winning points were set up two plays earlier when rookie defensive end Kenard Lang forces a fumble and rookie linebacker recovers on the Redskins 35-yard line.

November 23, 1997

Washington 7, NY Giants 7

In overtime the Redskins turn the ball over three times, but the defense forces two punts and the Giants miss a 54-yard field goal. With under two minutes remaining, the Redskins drive to the Giants 36-yard line but a 54-yard field goal attempt falls short with :11 seconds left in overtime.

September 12, 1999 - FedExField

November 28, 1999 - FedExField

Washington 20, Philadelphia 17

Brett Conway's game-winning 27-yard FG was set up by a 48-yard kickoff return by James Thrash, which opened the overtime period. The Eagles never had the ball.

70th Anniversary Season

The 70 Greatest Redskins in team history were announced in June 2002 by a blue-ribbon panel, selected to choose the Washington Redskins' leading on-field contributors in celebration of the NFL franchise's 70th anniversary. The 70 Greats were honored in a weekend of festivities, October 25-27, culminating in a special half-time ceremony during the Redskins victory over the Indianapolis Colts. The celebration reunited the 70 Greats with a black-tie gala event, an alumni and media brunch, dinner party and pre-game barbeque at FedExField.

Spanning the entire history of the team since its founding in Boston in 1932, the 70 Greatest Redskins encompass three head coaches and 67 players. They present a tableau of accomplishments from the franchise's very beginnings with Turk Edwards and Cliff Battles selected from the Redskins' 1932 inaugural roster. Across the generations, the group included two active players - cornerback Darrell Green, in his 20th and final year as a Redskin in 2002, and Brian Mitchell, who played 10 years as a Redskin running back and kick/punt return specialist.

Head Coaches George Allen, Joe Gibbs and Ray Flaherty were selected for the 70 Greatest Redskins team because of their record of achievements, not the least being Gibbs' taking the team to four Super Bowls and winning three of them. The Most Valuable Players of those three championships also appear on the list: quarterbacks Doug Williams and Mark Rypien and running back John Riggins, as well as quarterback Joe Theismann, who commanded the team the year Riggins won his MVP award.

There are 92 Super Bowl appearances among the 70 Greats, with 47 going once and 45 playing in more than one. Twenty-nine members of the squad possess one Super Bowl ring; 26 have more than one. For the years prior to the Super Bowl, members of the 70 made 18 World Championship appearances; six participated in the team's World Championship victories in 1937 and 1942.

Longevity is represented in Green, Sammy Baugh, Monte Coleman, Jeff Bostic, Dave Butz, Chris Hanburger, Len Hauss, Art Monk, Charley Taylor and Don Warren, who amassed a cumulative 150 Redskin years, nearly one-quarter of the 644 playing years amassed by the entire group. Every Redskin in the Pro Football Hall of Fame (who played more than three years with the team) is represented. Every player and coach in the team's Ring of Fame is on the list, as well.

There are 41 Greats who primarily played offense, 23 who primarily played defense and three special teams representatives: kicker Mark Moseley, punter Mike Bragg and return specialist Mike Nelms. Colleges and universities throughout the country are represented, with Arizona State, Clemson, Nebraska, North Carolina, Notre Dame, Pittsburgh and Washington State contributing two players apiece.

The blue-ribbon selection panel consisted of Shaw; Redskins alum Bobby Mitchell; U.S. Sen. George Allen of Virginia, son of Redskins Hall of Fame Coach George Allen; Washington broadcasting legend Ken Beatrice; Noel Epstein, editor of several Washington Post histories of the team; former Under Secretary of State Joseph J. Sisco; Phil Hochberg, who retired last season after 38 years as a team stadium announcer; Pro Football Hall of Fame historian Joe Horrigan; WRC-TV Sports Director George Michael; WTEM Sports Director Andy Pollin; Steve Sabol, president of NFL Films; and WRC-TV anchor Jim Vance.

FedExField®

FedExField is the premier stadium in the National Football League. Located in Landover, MD, the privately financed FedExField was completed in a record 17 months and hosted the Redskins home opener September 14, 1997 — a 19-13 overtime win against the Arizona Cardinals.

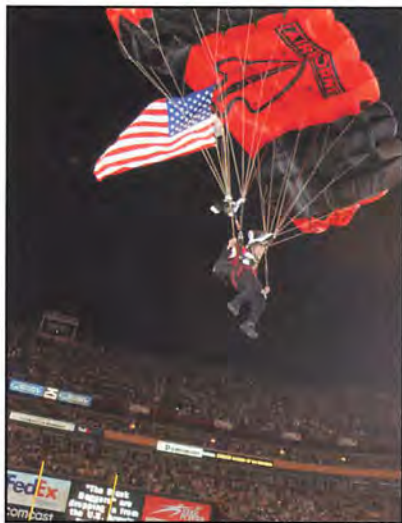

The stadium is located on a 200-acre site and is the largest outdoor stadium in the NFL with 86,484 seats — over 7,000 more than the next largest — the Meadowlands in New Jersey. FedExField is one of just two stadiums with three tiers of luxury suites, a total of 234. Suites are equipped with restrooms, a refrigerator, televisions, lounge area, two rows of seats, and bar stools.

FedExField increased the Redskins attendance capacity by over 40% when the team left RFK Stadium after 1996. Nevertheless, the Redskins have sold out every home game for the past 36 seasons (278 regular season and 13 playoff games) including all 49 contests at FedExField. All eight games for the 2003 season are sold out as well as both preseason contests.

Construction on FedExField began in March 1996 and cost $250 million. The following year, $30 million was spent to create a 170,000 square-foot atrium encircling the entire stadium making the Joe Gibbs Club Level the most spectacular in the league.

When Daniel M. Snyder became the Redskins owner in July 1999, one of his first tasks was to make additional improvements to FedExField. Immediately, millions were invested in such projects as replacing metal rails with glass rails in order to provide unobstructed sight lines in the stadium bowl. The sound system was significantly upgraded and the parking lot was re-structured and re-routed to greatly improve the traffic flow on game days.

After his inaugural season, Snyder spent over $20 million to enhance FedExField. Over the past three seasons, numerous additions have been made. Escalators have been added for fans seated in the stadium's upper tier. The spectacular new Owner's Club Suite Level has been created. A 3,000-foot circumference wind screen has been installed around the top of the stadium to improve fan comfort. A sophisticated radiant heating system has been installed on the loge level. Seats were added to both the general and loge levels. The Field Club section of seating was added immediately around the playing field, dubbed the "dream seats," given they put fans almost on top of the action. The Hall of Fame Store, the original Official Redskins Store, has been remodeled and completely re-merchandised with new Redskins products. Finally, the field has been improved and re-sodded.

During the off-season, FedExField hosts a variety of special events, including two high profile concerts this summer: Metallica's Summer Sanitarium Tour and rock legend Bruce Springsteen and his E Street Band. For more information regarding FedExField events, check out Redskins.com.

Welcome to Redskins Park

Rising from a former dairy farm and set on a picturesque 162 acres of land in Ashburn, Virginia, Redskins Park is the Washington Redskins' year-round training facility.

The team has called Redskins Park its home since August of 1992, enjoying a private haven away from urban distractions. The complex features four football fields, strength training and sports medicine facilities, offices and meeting rooms for players, coaches and front office staff, and accommodations for print and broadcast media. The building amasses some 65,000 square feet.

Located in Loudoun County, recently named the second fastest growing area in the United States, Redskins Park is tucked away from highways and other office buildings. The two-story concrete and glass structure looks deceiving in size. Visitors enter a bright, spacious lobby that opens out to the second-story balcony, overlooking an impressive back yard of three carefully groomed natural grass playing fields and an additional astro-turf practice surface.

The downstairs part of the building is dedicated to football operations, including player and staff locker rooms, a strength and conditioning center, the equipment room, athletic training rooms and video studio. The athletic training facilities include an x-ray room and dentist office, in addition to private examining rooms for the medical staff that cares for the team throughout the year. The lower level also consists of two racquetball courts and a half-court basketball gym. A catering kitchen is located adjacent to the gym, used as a dining hall during team practice sessions throughout the year.

The upper floor consists of a large, 105-seat multipurpose auditorium, used for team meetings, press conferences, and film sessions with connecting meeting rooms for all position groups. In addition to the coaching staff, the personnel department also has offices and video rooms on this floor. The public area of the building consists of large hallways, high ceilings with natural lighting, and numerous trophy cases displaying the team's rich history and tradition.

The club's accounting, marketing, public relations, publishing, Leadership Council and administrative offices are also located on the upper floor. An adjacent media room has individual cubicles and workspace for beat reporters and visiting media, as well as being wired for the Coach Spurrier's Monday press conferences. The media room, as well as the auditorium and the locker room, is pre-wired for direct television uplink.

Washington Redskins Training Camp

The Washington Redskins will open 2003 Training Camp on July 27th, at Redskins Park, the team's year-round practice complex in Ashburn, Virginia. This will be the second year the team has chosen to stay home to prepare for the NFL season, taking advantage of the Redskins' state-of-the-art training resources and facilities.

Training camp is an annual ritual in the NFL, an opportunity for fans from all over the country to come see their favorite Redskins players in action on the practice field, and get a first glimpse of the newly signed free agents and draft picks. With the numerous off-season additions to the Redskins roster, fans will see a new team take the field in 2003.

attending Redskins Training Camp must obtain credentials to gain access to the grounds. Media should fax requests on company letterhead to the attention of Shelby Morrison at 703-726-7086.

The Redskins first held training camp at Redskins Park in 2000, opening the complex to visitors for the first time in franchise history. Thousands of fans from all over the Washington, D.C. area, and beyond, were able to visit, watch their favorite players just steps from the practice fields, gather autographs and

All outdoor practices are open to fans, free of charge. Visitors are encouraged to bring lawn chairs or blankets, as they will be able to sit along the hill overlooking the four playing fields. After each practice, fans will have the opportunity to gather autographs and take photos of their favorite players as they walk off the field to the locker rooms.

Extensive media attention is expected, and to assist visiting press in their coverage, the Redskins provide a media tent and workbook equipped with power inputs and phone lines for data transmission. Credentialed media will have additional access to the players and practice areas, and can coordinate interviews through the Redskins public relations department. All media take part in the Redskins experience. After a two-year hiatus, with camp being held at Dickinson College, the Redskins are back in Ashburn to get ready for the 2003 season.

Dates: The Redskins report to camp on July 27th and will conduct practices through August 14th. Fan Appreciation Day is scheduled for August 2nd, the first Saturday of Camp, and will include special performances by the Washington Redskins Cheerleaders and the acclaimed Redskins Marching Band. First Ladies of Football

Each year, hundreds of talented young women audition for the chance to cheer on the Washington Redskins players and entertain fans along the sidelines of FedExField. Since their inception in 1962, the First Ladies of Football have brought Redskins fans to their feet, both on and off the field.

While the Washington Redskins Cheerleaders are most visible to Redskins fans during the games at FedExField, they also find themselves working weekends and holidays year round to assist charity and volunteer organizations, fundraisers, and educational foundations. Each year, working with the Department of Defense and Armed Forces Entertainment, members of the Washington squad travel to military bases around the world. Most recently, the cheerleaders traveled overseas to the Balkans and the Middle East, to support Operation Enduring Freedom service members. Over the last five years performing for U.S. troops, the Washington Redskins Cheerleaders Variety Show has grown from a small Holiday performance to a musical extravaganza that incorporates the latest in funk, rock-n-roll, swing, and jazz, as well as contemporary and country music, with some audience participation thrown in to ensure the show has something for everyone.

Redskins Stats Crew

An integral part of every Redskins game at FedExField is the dedicated staff of statisticians and assistants that monitor every snap, tackle, run, pass and catch that takes place on the playing field. The Redskins stats crew is responsible for generating official game stats, compiling and inputting play-by-play information into a computer database that quickly makes the data available for use by team coaches, the NFL and the media. Jon Stratton heads up the group, beginning his 17th year of service. His crew is among the League's best, with more than 100 years of combined experience.

Redskins Grounds Crew

Under the supervision of Head Groundskeeper Don Follett, the playing surface at FedExField is among the very best in the NFL, and has earned Follett numerous invitations to prepare Super Bowl and Pro Bowl playing fields. The Redskins Grounds Crew is responsible for ensuring that the playing fields at FedExField and Redskins Park are in smooth, safe condition and able to withstand the rigors of NFL football. They work year-round operating the high-tech irrigation system under FedExField, fertilizing, mowing and chalking the field to keep it in top playing condition. The Grounds Crew plays an important role in Redskins community initiatives as well, helping the Washington Redskins Leadership Council renovate the football fields of local high schools throughout the region. The program has been so successful that the NFL is encouraging similar programs in other NFL markets.

Washington Redskins Marching Band

The Redskins Marching Band begins its 65th year leading sell-out crowds at FedExField in the team fight song, "Hail to the Redskins." With bandmaster Billy Ball directing, it is one of just two pro football marching bands still in existence today. The all-volunteer ensemble formed in 1937, when

George Preston Marshall brought the team to Washington, D.C., with the goal of entertaining fans from the moment they walked into the stadium until the time they left to go home. For more than six decades, the Marching Band has taken great pleasure in entertaining fans with their pre-game and halftime shows. Over the years, the Band has marched between train stations and stadiums before notable games, down Broadway before a New York Giants game in the early 1960s, and around the concourse of Tampa Stadium during Super Bowl XVIII.

HAIL TO THE REDSKINS

THE REDSKINS FIGHT SONG

*"Hail to the Redskins!
Hail Victory!
Braves on the warpath,
Fight for old D.C.!*

*Run or pass and score
we want a lot more!
Beat 'em Swamp 'em Touchdown
let the points soar!*

*Fight on, Fight on,
Til you have won,
Sons of Wash-ing-ton!"*

On August 17, 1938, "Hail to the Redskins" made its debut as the official fight song of the Washington Redskins. The song was written by renowned band leader Barnee Breeskin and the lyrics were penned by Hollywood movie star Corinne Griffith, the wife of team founder and owner, George Preston Marshall. Gettin' Down with the Funky Four

The Funky Four are members of the Washington Redskins Marching Band percussion section who have become a fixture of the FedExField game day experience. Members Harry Jackson, Kenny Scott, Thomas Clarke, and Michael Dorsey entertain the FedExField crowd with uniquely choreographed dance routines, performed to "Play that Funky Music" by Wild Cherry during the third quarter of every home game. In addition to their performances at Redskins games, the Funky Four are in demand around town, appearing at charity and community events throughout the metro area including the Steve Spurrier Redskins Golf Classic at Lansdowne Country Club, benefiting the Washington Redskins Leadership Council.

Meet the Hogettes

Another trademark of FedExField game day is a sighting of "The Hogettes," a highly spirited group of Redskins fans that dress in polka dot skirts, brightly colored wigs, plastic hog snouts, and enjoy extra-large cigars. "The Hogettes" started appearing at Redskins games in 1983, named after Washington's popular offensive line from the 80's, "The Hogs". The group can be found at FedExField for every home Redskins games, and sometimes in the stands on road trips. The members are extremely active in the community as well, making appearances at golf tournaments, telethons, and parades to support children's charities. "The Hogettes" received the ultimate die-hard fan honor in 1999, with an induction into the Pro Football Hall of Fame, in the Hall of Fans exhibit in Canton, Ohio.

FedExField Attendance Records

In 2002, the Washington Redskins established a new NFL record for the third season in a row by playing in front of 1,182,596 fans in their 16 games, breaking last year's NFL record 1,137,730. Washington's home attendance for the 2002 season came to 643,950. The NFL's top single season mark in front of a home crowd is 647,424 – set by the Redskins in 2000.

Washington fans set their own team record on September 8, 2002 at the season opener against the Arizona Cardinals. 85,140 fans attended the contest – the most ever at a Redskins game. The eight-game attendance average at FedEx Field was 73,912 for the 2002 season. The NFL average was 66,138.

The Washington Redskins Leadership Council is a 501(c)(3) organization. IRS Tax Exempt Number 54-1982366

Helps area high school athletes on and off the field. The program renovates and upgrades football fields at high schools in Washington, D.C., and Prince George's County, Maryland and places academic coaches in schools to help student-athletes focus on academics. The program kicked off in fall 2002 at Anacostia High School and will be expanded into additional schools.

Designed to encourage and promote community service and volunteerism among youth. Over the past three years, 60,000 area youth have participated. In 2002 and 2003, the Council has doubled participation in the All Stars program and reinvested over $250,000 into youth organizations.

A curriculum-based program for high school athletes that focuses on what it takes to be successful on the field, in the classroom and in the workplace. The curriculum illustrates important life lessons by using examples from Redskins players, coaches and alumni. Over 5,000 high school athletes from 40 area schools have participated in the program, culminating with a player-led interactive forum at FedExField, held in November, sponsored by Coca-Cola.

Encouraging and promoting literacy among youth is the mission of the Redskins Read summer program. The Leadership Council has produced and will distribute 50,000 Redskins Read activity books to 150 local branch libraries. Local libraries received grants to enhance their summer reading programs. Redskins players will continue to read to children at area locations throughout the season and participate in Read Across America Day.
